

ABOUT THE BEACON HOUSE

Mission

The Beacon House provides a positive, safe, and accountable environment for men to overcome alcohol and drug addiction and learn to live a productive life.

The Beacon House was envisioned as more than a half-way house and as one that would prepare residents for the eventuality of a sober, independent lifestyle by teaching life skills in a home-like environment as one part of a comprehensive recovery program. Currently, Beacon House is home to approximately 50 men who are in recovery for a substance use disorder. They are required to have employment, pay rent, stay sober, participate in classes on recovery held on the premises, and regularly attend meetings of Alcoholics Anonymous, all opportunities for residents to reinforce various life skills.

"I've seen what can happen when our residents have structured independence - life skills, case management, the twelve steps - they are safe, accountable, and working toward a higher degree of success. This is what sets the Beacon House apart from other transitional housing facilities."
